

The IN AG used the email address I provided to them with my request to be placed on a do not solicit list expressly for the purpose of soliciting me, a betrayal of my trust. The AG's request that I support their opposition to a proposed amendment to the Do Not Call law in IN is disingenuous on it's face. Beside that, the proposed amendment the AG opposes seems like a good idea to me, established relationships should not be interfered with by State law, rather we should amend to penalize the AG for betraying public trust by soliciting those who requested to be left alone. Feel free to respond to this if desired.
